Assessor' s report dofe template

All you need is the participant ID, the prize level (bronze, silver or gold) and the section for which you rate them (Volunteering, Physical, Skill, Expedition or Residential). Please ask the young person you support for these details. The young person must have introduced the section data into eDofE before you can submit your report. Your comments automatically go to the participant's dofe leader for approval before they are added to the participant's account. We ask for your email address and phone number to enable their DofE Leader to contact you if they wish to discuss your assessment with you and so that we can send you a copy of the report you are sending. Thank you for supporting young people in their activities. Please read our Privacy Policy for information about how your personal information is protected. Note: If you have a problem with the code CAPTCHA, please use another device / network / browser and this should solve the problem. If not, please contact [email protected] as part of the award process, young people must provide at least one piece of evidence to track their progress in each part of the prize, which will then be considered by a DoFE appraiser before a decision is made. Anyone who takes on this role should: Be over 18 Have knowledge of the field they appreciate to be officially accredited, if evaluated expeditions are approved by the leader Be impartial (for example, family members of young people can not appreciate their rewards for them) Evaluators can present evidence through: Filling in the official dofe keeping of the Dof Line Booklet Presenting evidence online dofe.org/assessor Sending the report to the participant Keeping simple written or telephone log evidence They can all be linked to the young person's eDOFE account and uploaded by the young person, evaluator or leader. Does a checklist for all the evaluator's reports contain a report on the young person's details (e.g. his name)? Does it include the name of the assessor and the contact details? Have they confirmed that the young man's activities took place? Have they confirmed how often the young person has participated in these activities and checked whether the dates match those recorded through eDofE? Are they impartial? Has this section been completed on its own initiative (school activities do not count, for example)? Is there a clearly listed purpose of the expedition? Is there a notification number (for wilderness areas and for golden expeditions)? At least 50% of their planned activity was spent on travel? Does the appraiser include their own accreditation number? Example In order to report feedback in the evaluator's report, it must be written personally for the person, considering their individual progress and development. It is not acceptable to simply say He/she completed the section: evaluators should write short paragraphs. At the end of the report, it may be Time to consider the young man's next steps: perhaps suggesting that he progresses to the next level of his DoFE or Scout award. If they have already achieved a gold award and the Queen's Scout Award, it may be worth considering volunteering with the Scouts ahead. Read an example report submitted by an appraiser that checks your progress and agrees to fill out a section of your program. They will prepare or sign the relevant evaluator's report for this section, which is uploaded to eDofE. An evaluator can be anyone interested in helping you achieve, has some knowledge of the activity you are doing and can be available during the time you do. From the local football club coach to a charity shop manager, from a neighbour who is a web designer to a conservation expert leading a residential week, anyone can be an appraiser of the Volunteers, Physical, Skills and Housing sections. However, assessors must be independent. Therefore, they cannot be a member of your family. Due to the nature of the expeditions, there are slightly different rules for expedition evaluators. If you are struggling to find evaluators, talk to Mr. Lambert. The evaluator must have knowledge of the activity carried out and be familiar with your objectives. Give them the map of the relevant sectional appraiser from your welcome package. The evaluator should also be available at key stages throughout your experience to assess your contribution and development. Once a section is complete, the evaluator will meet with you to discuss your performance, experience, and achievements. The evaluator will decide whether you have met the DoFE requirements – that you have demonstrated effort, perseverance, improvement and progress towards the section's objectives. This information, together with the comments of the evaluator, should be recorded in the evaluator's report. The evaluator's reports can be submitted in two ways, including: Online: on www.DofE.org/assessor then follow the instructions. On paper: using appraiser cards or other written materials that can be uploaded to eDofE (backup available below). In any case, evaluators will need to provide your name, eDofE ID number (top left of each page when you're in eDofE), DoFE level, and the section they rated. Download a simple guide to adding the evaluator's reports online here. At the end of each section, your DoFE Leader should spend some time discussing your achievements in a section and help you reflect and identify the skills you have learned.
